

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES: Habeas Corpus Cases Challenging Immigration Detention

NYU Law Project

Kyle Barron, a Clinical Teaching Fellow at NYU Law, created a project where she seeks to match immigration lawyers with lawyers who have federal practice experience. A full description is below.

- NYU Law Protect
Kyle Barron, Clinical Teaching Fellow, New York University School of Law
Cell: (480) 430-6829
Office: (212)998-6233
Email: kyle.barron@nyu.edu

Project Description: Immigrant-ARC and the NYU Law Immigrant Rights Clinic are launching a habeas project to file habeas petitions on behalf of non-citizens in the NYC-area who have been arrested and detained by ICE. This project aims to match immigration attorneys with volunteer federal litigators to fully litigate habeas petitions on behalf of detained New Yorkers. There have been several successful projects like this across the country, including in NYC and Massachusetts. Each team will be matched with an immigration habeas mentor who can provide technical support and review. Our project will provide training and templates.

We are looking for volunteer attorneys who are comfortable litigating in federal court and who would have the capacity to file and litigate a habeas petition (with support!). We have piloted this model and it has resulted in the release of a number of New Yorkers. If you are interested in participating in this project, or even just want to learn more, please fill out this form.

The filing of a habeas petition is now required for almost anyone in ICE detention, but due to the increasing enforcement across New York City, immigration legal service providers are overwhelmed. We also anticipate a dramatic increase in the enforcement in the coming months in New York City, so the need is incredibly urgent. We hope to leverage the NYC legal community's expertise to address the rising need for habeas practice and support our community members facing the most dire consequences of the current state of immigration enforcement.

Lawyers for Good Government

Lawyers for Good Government is developing resources to assist volunteers who have federal litigation experience and are willing to bring immigration habeas cases.

Laura F. Klein
Senior Manager, Pro Bono Initiatives
Lawyers for Good Government (L4GG)
LKlein@lawyersforgoodgovernment.org

Amy Powell, Litigation Director
Lawyers for Good Government
amy@lawyersforgoodgovernment.org

National Habeas Immigration Institute (NIHI)

Attorneys may join NIHI's mailing list to learn of upcoming trainings in 2026: National Immigration Habeas Institute | Cardozo Law. For general information, NIHI may be contacted by email at nihi@yu.edu.